Y. M. C. A. ANNUAL MEETING

Important Business Transacted and the Officers Re-elected.

REPORTS SUBMITTED

The Necessity for More Commodious Quarters Shown-Splendid Work of the Various Committees-Promising Outlook for the Year Just Opened by the Fall.

That a new building is absolutely necessary to meet the wants and supply adequate accommodations for the increasing membership of the Washington Y. M. C. A. was established by the reports of committees submitted at the association's annual meeting held last Millinery Bargains.

According to these reports each committee would have been able to do more and better work if more extensive quarters and resource had been available. Especially was this noticeable in the athletic department, where several hundred regular attendants at the gymnasium are compelled to exercise in eramped quarters, which lack many of the modern appliances for the development of the muscles of the body. There is but one obstagle now in the way of soliciting subscriptions for the new enterprises and that is a ficating debt of about $2,700. It was the expressed determination of the members present at last night's meeting to clear off this debt as soon as possible and proceed to solicit aid in their efforts to secure a new home. Notwithstanding the serious drawback of crowded quarters, the reports rendered last night were of a favorable charmoter and showed the association to be in a buttons, all colors, 69c.

RECEPTION TO SOLDIER BOYS.

Troop A's Officers Compliment Their Men-Oysters Roasted to Suit the Queen's

Taste-Distinguished Guests. The commissioned officers, Capt. H. S. Barbour and Lieuts, J. T. Eiker and C. L. Beatty, of First Separate Company of the District National Guard, Troop A. tendered a reception, with oyster roast accompaniments, last night, to the members of their command, at which the officers of the regular Army at Fort Myer, and Gen. Ordway and staff, of the District National Guard, were guests of honor.

The reception was held at the Hotel Belford, on Thitteenth street northwest, near G street. It was intended to be a compliment to Troop A for its splendid record while recently on drill at "Camp Barbour," and to serve, as well, as a "stirrup cup" to the gallant efficers at Fort Myer, in anticipation of their early departure for the distant Western posts to which they have been assigned, in token of the appreciation of Troop A's staff for numerous courtesies extended by their comrades of the regular Army.

Here the boys of Troop A, gally bedeeked in the yellow and blue of the cavalry ranks, were congregated, and here they feasted on the delicious bivalves, hot from the pan.

The affair was decidedly informal. It began at 9 o'clock and closed at 11, and it was declared by the participants of the feast that overtex wars, never before your model.

STONES TO MARK THE LINES.

Marons Baker Tells the Historical Society What He Knows of the District Boundaries.

The Historical Society neld its second meeting and the opening one of the season at the house of Dr. Toner, the president of the society, 1435 Massachusetts avenue northwest, last night. The attendance was light, owing to the absence of a number of the nembers from the city.

The officers of the society had a meeting previous to that of the society. The main topic of discussion was the boundary line of the District. On this topic Mr. Marcus Baker, the secretary of the society, spoke at some length. He has made a study of the subject during the summer months and said he had derived muth pleasure and recreation from tracing the lines and examining the stones set to mark the lines.

set to mark the lines. In order to discover these stones he had tramped many miles through the woods and had covered a great deal of territory. The stones are of peculiar scientific interest, as on each stone is cut the variation of the compass or that point. If these variations are true they will have an important hearing on this subject, which is at present being diligently pursued by the Geological Survey.

There are forty of these stones, which were set at distances of one mile on the original lines of the boundary of the District when it was transfer. was ten miles square. When Washington first decided on the location of the District he picken upon a point at Jones lighthouse, near Alexandria, Va., and the corner stone of the boundary was laid in 1791. The lines were to be laid at right angles and to be ten niles long. Mr. Baker spoke of the instrutions of Washington to the surveyors, and then began with the southwestern boundary and picked out the stones along that line.

They all are two feet high by one for square, and on one side is marked, "jurisdicsquare, and on one side is marked, "jurisdiction of the United States, "the other "jurisdiction of Maryland" or "Virginia" on another the date, and on the fourth the variation of the compass. The stones were found in different conditions, some good and some had. All the stones on the Virginia side of the river showed signs of bad usage, while those on the Maryland side were in good condition.

Mr. Baker found one of the stones in Dr. Babbitt's back yard in Alexandria, another near an old cocking pit on the Conduit road; a third he dug out of the ground on the banks of the creek, and several were buried in densa woods. He had with him several maps and his explanations were very clear. His talk was followed by a general discussion of the subject and kindred topics.

Catarra usually originates in the head, following a coid or the grippe, and is neglected or badly treated. A person contracts a severa cold in the head, which becomes inflamed throughout the head, which becomes inflamed throughout the nasal passages, giving rise to such symp toms as professe discharge at the nose, dry, tigkling sensation in the threat, coryen, a tight feeling in the head, and many other symptoms, according to the severity of the attack and organic weakness of the individual.
